The mission of the School of Health Technology and Management is to provide the highest quality education in a multidisciplinary learning environment that fosters research, scholarly activity, critical thinking, evidence-based practice, leadership, and professionalism, while affirming the importance of ethical behavior, human diversity, service, and a team approach to health care. To achieve this, the School endeavors to:

- promote patient health and well being by teaching the knowledge, attitudes, and skills needed to ensure excellence in practice;
- encourage innovative and responsible methods of managing and delivering high quality, cost-effective, accessible health care;
- respond to current and emerging public health challenges both locally and globally; and
- cultivate partnerships among faculty, staff, students, and community.

Entry-level Doctorate in Physical Therapy

DPT Program

Richard Johnson, PT, EdD
Chair, Physical Therapy Program

The Entry-level Doctorate Physical Therapy Program (DPT) is a three-year post-baccalaureate degree designed to prepare generalists to perform evidence-based practice in today’s exciting and challenging healthcare environment. Upon completion of the program, the student is eligible to take the licensure exam.

New in 2013! Program Expansion—The program is now offered in two locations, the original Stony Brook campus and the Southampton campus. Both settings now offered in two locations, the original Stony Brook University Hospital, the Long Island State Veterans Health care providers, including Stony Brook University and the Long Island State Veterans Home and Southampton Hospital.

Why Choose Stony Brook’s DPT Program?

- Case-based integrative units of study designed to develop clinical decision making
- 36 weeks of full-time clinical education
- 10 to 1 student/faculty ratio
- Consistently high first time pass rates on the professional licensing exam
- 40-year history of full accreditation without citations.
- Opportunities to collaborate with faculty in research, teaching and administration
- Strong clinical and classroom integration with local health care providers, including Stony Brook University Hospital, the Long Island State Veterans Home and Southampton Hospital
- Clinician-adjunct participation in all lab courses
- State of the art Rehabilitation Research and Movement Performance Laboratory (RRAMP)
- Individualized faculty advisement
- Low tuition costs
